Rheumatism
Neuralgia, Sprains,
Pain in the Back and Side.
There is nothing more painful than these diseases; but the pain can be removed and the disease cured by using Perry Davis' Pain Killer.
This remedy is not a cheap Benzine or Petroleum product that must be kept away from fire or heat to avoid danger of explosion, nor is it an untried experiment that may do more harm than good.
Pain Killer has been in constant use for forty years, and the universal testimony from all parts of the world is, It never fails. It not only effects a permanent cure, but it relieves pain almost instantaneously. Being a purely vegetable remedy, it is safe in the hands of the most inexperienced.
The record of cures by the use of PAIN KILLER would fill volumes. The following extracts from letters received show what those who have tried it think:
Edgar Cady, Owatonna, Minn., says: About a year since my wife became subject to severe suffering from rheumatism. Our resort was to the PAIN KILLER, which speedily relieved her.
Charles Powell writes from the Sailors' Home, London: I had been afflicted three years with neuralgia and violent spasms of the stomach. The doctors at Westminster Hospital gave up my case in despair. I tried your PAIN KILLER, and it gave me immediate relief. I have regained my strength, and am now able to follow my usual occupation.
G. H. Walworth, Saco, Me., writes: I experienced immediate relief from pain in the side by the use of your PAIN KILLER.
E. York says: I have used your PAIN KILLER for rheumatism, and have received great benefit.
Barton Seaman says: Have used PAIN KILLER for thirty years, and have found it a never-failing remedy for rheumatism and lameness.
Mr. Burditt writes: It never fails to give relief in cases of rheumatism.
Phil. Gilbert, Somerset, Pa., writes: From actual use, I know your PAIN KILLER is the best medicine I can get.
All druggists keep PAIN KILLER. Its price is so low that it is within the reach of all, and it will save many times its cost in doctors' bills. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 a bottle.

FAIR ELAINE.

Fair art thou, beyond compare:
Thou hast meshed my willing heart
In thy net of nut-brown hair,
Which in wavelets rolls apart
From thy brow, so broad and fair,—
Easy hold who's loth to start.

And my bounding heart adores,
When thou liftest up thine eyes,
Beaming light, and truth, and—more—
Loves own freight of smiles and sighs;
Gazing far to distant shores,
Where thy maiden's dream land lies.

Loving one as I do thee,
'Tis not strange that I can trace
In thy figure, light and free,
Rarest beauty, highest grace;
Love's smile looking out at me
From each dimple in thy face.

Nor that every smile of thine
Fills me with a glad surprise;
While this wandering heart of mine,
Full of sorrows and of sighs,
Rest should find, and cease to pine.
Purged from sin by thy soft eyes.

Strange thou art, I know not why;
Shy at times, and frightened, too,
Then, scarce lifting up thine eyes—
Summer skies less pure and blue—
Now thy lips, which mute did lie,
Teem with words that thrill me through.

Silence, tongue of God and Love,
Stealeth in, begemmed with sighs,
Bringing gladness from above;
Gazing in those liquid eyes—
Guileless eyes, like frightened dove,—
Shows me into Paradise.

SUMMER AND AUTUMN.

Gorgeous leaves are whirling down
Homeward comes the scented hay.
O'er the stubble, sear and brown,
Flaunt the autumn flowers gay;
Ah, alas!
Summers pass,—
Like our joys, they pass away!

Fanned by many a balmy breeze,
In the spring I loved to lie
'Neath the newly-budded trees,
Gazing upward to the sky;
But, alas!
Time will pass,
And the flowers of spring must die!

Oft my maiden sat with me,
Listening to the thrush's tone,
Warbled forth from every tree
Ere the meadow hay was mown;
But alas!
Summers pass,—
Now I wander alone!

Love, like summer time, is fair,
Decked with buds and blossoms gay;
But upon this Autumn air
Floats a voice, which seems to say,
"Loves, alas!
Also pass,
As the summers pass away."

—George Arnold.

Select Story.

A WILD RIDE.

Before I begin my story I must tell you that I am a commercial traveler, born and bred, so to speak, to the business.

I have my wits about me, and, as I often happen to have a good many valuable articles also, I have need of them.

I am an Englishman—English to the back bone—and live on roast beef, bottled ale and old port wine. I am one of the men who don't dream and don't fancy.

When I see a thing I see it. When I hear a thing I hear it. And what I saw on one particular occasion I mean to tell you.

You will not offend me if you doubt it.

Nevertheless, I shall, as I said, tell the story.

It was in the year 18—, and the month was May, and the place was England. I had left London five days before, and now I was miles and miles away from it, in the very heart of the country, traveling toward a little town where I had business. It was an old-fashioned inn, and the people were kind and obliging.

Travelers did not often stop at the inn, I suspect, for they were as particular about my meals as though I had been a prodigal son come home for the holidays.

They killed the fatted chicken for me and made much of me altogether; and to crown all, as the train did not stop in time to take me on, as I wanted to go, and as it was only a matter of five miles or so, what did the landlord do but hunt up a rusty old coach that was tucked away in the coach house, and ordered his man to drive me over that evening. It wasn't an extra, mind you. It was sheer good will. So I shook hands all around, and remembered the chambermaid and the waiter with half a crown each, and off I rode. It was getting dark fast, and the road wound away among the hills in a very romantic sort of a way; why, it made you think of ghosts, if you were a commercial traveler.

"Here's the place," says I to myself, "where the old gentleman of the road would like to have met me and my black bag fifty years ago."

A hundred years ago, anyhow, I would not have felt as safe as I do now.

Just then the coach came to a sudden pause.

"Hallo," cried I out of the window; "what's the matter?"

"It's more than I can tell, sir," said the man. "Black Jane has turned sulky; she won't move one step."

With that he began to shout and crack his whip, I, with my head out of the window, watching him, when suddenly the beast started off like mad, and I drew in my face and saw I had company.

While the coach was at a standstill a lady and gentleman had slipped in.

They sat on the seat opposite me, and though it was an intrusion I had not the heart to find fault, for a prettier pair I never saw in my life.

If he was twenty-one years, it was just as much as he could be, and she was not seventeen.

I have seen a pair of china lovers on the mantle-piece the perfect image of what they were, as pretty, and dressed much the same.

His hair was powdered, and hers, too. She had on a yellow silk, lower in the neck than I would like a daughter of mine to wear it, and her arms would have been bare only for her long kid gloves. She had pearls in her ears and on her throat, and she had just the most innocent face my two eyes ever rested upon. As for the boy, he had a chocolate velvet coat and white silk stockings, and lace ruffles at his wrist. And they had one large cloak—his, I fancy—cast about the two of them, though it drooped back a bit as they sat down.

"Two young folks going to a fancy ball, perhaps," said I, "and just took a lift on the way."

And I touched my cap to them, and says I: "Fine evening, sir."

He did not answer me, but she looked at me and stretched out a little white hand.

"Oh, sir," said she, "look out at the back of the coach, I pray you, and tell me if he is gaining on us."

I looked out of the window.

"There's a man on horseback riding up the road," said I, for I saw one.

"Oh, heavens!" said she.

"Courage, Betty!" said the young fellow. "They shall never part us."

Then I knew it was a runaway match.

"I see how it is," cried I, "keep up your heart young man. If the young lady likes you, she'll stick to you through thick and thin. I'll do my best to help you."

"Oh, heaven!" she cried again. "Oh, my darling, I hear the horses' feet. There are more of them. Oh, sir, look; tell me."

I looked and saw many armed horsemen following swiftly.

"Closer to my heart, Betty," cried the young man. "My beloved, they come."

He drew his sword.

Among other things he wore a sword. I pulled my pistol from my pocket.

We all stretched our heads forward, and at that moment the coach turned a rocky point of the road, and I saw we were on the margin of a precipice.

All the time Black Jane had kept up her furious speed, and I saw we were in danger.

"Have care!" cried I.

"Faster!" cried the young man.

Suddenly there came a jolt and a scream from the young lady. I heard him say, "at least we die together."

And the coach lay flat on its side—not over the precipice, but on the edge of it.

A man is a little stunned by a thing like that.

When I climbed out of the window and helped old Anthony up with the coach, and coaxed Black Jane to quietness, I remembered that no one else got out of the vehicle, and I looked about in vain for my pretty lovers. They were not there, nor were there any signs of the troop of horsemen I had seen dashing up the hill. They could not have passed us in the narrow path by any possibility.

"We ran a chance for our lives, master," said Anthony. "Yet I am called a good driver, and Black Jane is the kindest thing I ever saw in harness. Thank God for all His mercies. It's a strange thing we did not go over the cliff."

"But where did they go?" I asked.

"Who?" said Anthony.

"The two lovers—the pretty creatures in fancy dress. The people who were after them—Where are they?"

"Where—" began Anthony. Then he turned as pale as death. "All good angels over us!" he cried. "We have ridden with Lady Betty. It's the 10th of May. I might have known better than to try the road to-night. Protect us all. Yes, we've ridden with Lady Betty."

"Who is Lady Betty?" said I. "As pretty a creature as ever I saw, at all events. Who was she?"

Old Anthony stood looking at me and shaking his head.

"It's an old story," he said. "Book-learned people tell it better than I. But a hundred years ago or more, on this blessed night, my Lady Betty Hope, the prettiest lady, ran off from a country ball with her father's young secretary."

"They put one cloak over their heads, and an old servant drove them, knowing it was worth his life.'

"But before they had gone far, behind them came her kinsfolk, armed and ready for vengeance. And when they reached this point they saw that all was over.

"'Better die together than live apart,' he said, holding her close. Then he called out to the servant, 'How goes it?'

"'All is lost, sir,' said the man. 'The horses can't hold up five minutes longer.'

"'Then drive over' said he.

The man obeyed orders.

"But ever since that night, sir, as sure as the 10th of May comes around there's plenty here that will tell you that whoever drives a coach past this road after nightfall won't ride alone.

"There's nobody that remembered the night would do it for a kingdom, but I forgot. I'm getting old, and I forget things whiles; and so we've ridden with Lady Betty."

That's the story old Anthony told me, and what went before is what I saw and heard. I'm a solid, sensible man, but facts are facts, and here you have 'em.

Bribing a Boy.

In cleaning up a little yesterday after the Christmas rush, a small dealer in toys, papers and confectionery on Gratiot avenue found among his trash what the boys call "a thundering big fire cracker." It had been hiding away since the Fourth of July, and the man no sooner found it than he was possessed of a desire to make some one happy. He dared not throw it into his stove, and it seemed a grievous waste to fling it into the alley. He therefore waited, and patience was soon rewarded, just as she always is. A boy came in after a cent's worth of taffy, and he was closely followed by a dog big enough to carry off the front steps of a meeting house. The big fire cracker was exhibited and the case explained, and the party of the second part, in consideration of five sticks of candy, gave the party of the first part leave to attach the cracker to the dog's tail and fire it off. The canine offered no serious objections, and things were soon in shape. The boy then led the dog out on the walk, the fuse was ignited, and directly there was an explosion which set the dog to thinking faster than ever before in his life. He wheeled and dashed back into the store, made six or seven circuits of the room, and then, embarrassed, confused and anxious to get home and overhaul himself for repairs, he took a jump through one of the doors and left $7 worth of glass in pieces on the sidewalk. Some of the crowd sat down to laugh, while others leaned against the wall and yelled haw! haw! haw! at the top of their voices. The fire cracker man was the only one who seemed abstracted.—Detroit Free Press.

The Century and St. Nicholas.

THEIR RECENT GROWTH IN ENGLAND.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE may now be considered fully started on its way under the new name, and, with the forthcoming Midwinter number, which will have the new color design by Elihu Vedder, the name "Scribner's Monthly" is to be dropped as a sub-title. Its issues, since the change was made, have been commended by the press everywhere as of rare beauty and interest. The November number was said by the Providence "Journal" to be "the most able and valuable publication ever put forth in magazine form," while the "Press" pronounced it "unquestionably the most brilliant and striking, as it is the largest and most sumptuous, of anything yet known in American or European periodical literature." The Springfield "Republican" called the December number "for personal portraiture and biography, the richest single issue ever made by a magazine." The "N. Y. Observer" considers the January "Century" "an ideal number." The Charleston "News and Courier," when the change in the name was made, declared that it would "be difficult to improve on 'Scribner's,' already the first and best of American magazines." But the "Graphic" (N. Y.) recently said: "Take it all in all, 'The Century' is already a better magazine than 'Scribner's' ever was," and this is the general verdict. The increased excellence is not due to the change of name; it is only the natural growth of the magazine, made more conspicuous by the change.

With this growing excellence has come an increased sale. The average edition of the numbers of the last two volumes of "Scribner's Monthly" was 120,000; the average edition of the first four numbers of "The Century" is nearly 133,000. In England, 20,500 copies of November were sold, against an average of 16,230 for the twelve months preceding, and the sale of that number still continues there as well as here. In a recent issue of the Dumfries (Scotland) "Advertiser," the rapid progress made by "The Century" among the reading public of the United Kingdom was ascribed to "the Anglo-Saxon spirit, as distinguished from the purely British or the purely American, that pervades its pages; it is much more American than it is British, but it is more Anglo-Saxon than either, and more representative of the race than of any of the various nationalties into which it has separated."

"St. Nicholas" has grown in England, from a circulation of 3,000 copies a year ago, to a regular circulation now of 8,000 to 10,000 monthly. It is not often that the London "Times" goes out of its way to compliment children's magazines, and American ones at that, but its issue of December 20, 1881, contained the following good words about the last bound volumes of "St. Nicholas":

"There is an old song which sings how a certain venerable man delighted to pass the evening of his days in initiating his grandchild in the exhilarating game of draughts, and how, so well did the lad profit by his instruction, that at last 'the old man was beaten by the boy.' In looking over the two parts of 'St. Nicholas,' this old song has come back to us. Certainly the producers of such literature for our own boys and girls must look to their laurels. Both in the letter-press and the engravings these two volumes seem to us (though the admission touch our vanity or our patriotism, call it by which name we will, something closely) above anything we produce in the same line. The letterpress, while containing quite as large a power of attraction for young fancies, is so much more ideal, so much less commonplace, altogether of a higher literary style than the average production of our annuals of the same class. And the pictures are often works of real art, not only as engravings, but as compositions of original design."

An Arkansas Peculiarity.

There is a politeness, a kind of cordiality, in Arkansas that you will not find in many other States. Now, "Colonel" is a title of politeness. In Little Rock when "Colonel" is introduced to you, why you at once know that the gentleman is perfectly willing to go with you and take a drink. When "General" is introduced you may know that he is willing to take several drinks. "Captain" is less fortunate; you only owe him a nickel cigar. A characteristic of Western people is their forgetfulness of proper names. In this city hundreds of people who associate together daily only know each other by titles. Yesterday a gentleman approached a group of "standers around" and, extending his hand, began to receive congratulations.

"Why, Colonel," he said to one man, shaking his hand heartily, "I am overjoyed at seeing you. How is your health?"

"First rate, Colonel. I am delighted to see you. Why, sir, I was saying yesterday that I'd rather see you than any man in the State. Excuse me a moment. Say," he added, turning to an acquaintance and drawing him aside, "who is that man? He seems to be well acquainted with me, but blamed if I know him from Adam's off ox."

"You ought to know him. He's your law partner, and only left the city yesterday to attend court in a neighboring town."

Americans desiring aristocratic titles may be pleased to know where they are for sale, and at what prices. The figures are given by Chamber's Journal, and there is an agent in London who conducts the business. A choice of three Spanish orders, conferring the title of Count, is offered for $10,000, the only qualification necessary on the part of the purchaser being "an eminent standing in his own country." It may be presumed that the inquiry on that point is not severe. The Sultan of Turkey will make you a Chevalier for $125. You may become an Earl, of the sort created by the little republic of San Marino, by paying $3,850, or a Baron for $884. Secular dignities by the Pope are represented by the Journal to be in the market. To become a Count from this source costs $5,000. It is also said that in Russia, Portugal, and the German States, though the Governments do not barter away titles directly, the roundabout payment of fees to officials will produce satisfactory results.

Nothing like an honest quill. A St. Louis paper starts an editorial with: "Our ancestors, the baboons of Africa," etc. Don't you ever get lonesome to see the old folks?

Ancient Ruins.

A physician who has spent considerable time in the examination of the curious ruined cities of Yucatan, has sent to Harper's Weekly a letter concerning the finding of the singular and rather picturesque ruins of a dwarf's house and sanctuary in the ancient city of Uxmal, or rather Oxmal. This pile of stone possessed interest by reason of the Masonic emblems found therein, and which the physician describes minutely, together with the general plan and structure of the ruined edifice. The building stands on the artificial mound of earth on a road that leads from a Yucatan sugar plantation, and the name Oxmal, signifying "three times rebuilt," is among the inscriptions carved on the Western facade of the sanctuary. The temple is described as rising in solitary grandeur from the top of this mound, and to a height of fifteen metres and fifty centimetres. It is shaped like a truncated elliptical cone, the upper side serving as base to a building consisting of two rooms. In these it was found, 150 years after the place had been conquered by the Spaniards, that aborigines had celebrated their ancient worship only a short time before the visit of Father Cogoludo. There is also a part of the building which forms a sort of oblong truncated pyramid rising to the height of eight metres and fifty centimetres, and forming a terrace twenty-seven metres long by six metres wide, on which is built the edifice known in the ancient legends as the "dwarf's house," and which can be seen for a distance of many miles around. This house consists of three rooms, the walls of which have been bored with holes for some unknown reason, and which were evidently never intended for ordinary habitation. The doors open upon small platforms from which, in olden times, the priests and astronomers read, from the elevation the platforms afforded, the mysteries of the stars and the skies. The rooms are low as regards their height and are provided with thick walls. The floors were once painted red and elevated eighty centimetres over the terrace, and the ceilings form a triangular arch. This arch, which, according to the writer, is found in the ancient tombs of Chaldea and in the oldest of Egyptian and Grecian monuments, was evidently selected by choice of the architects, and not through any ignorance of the builders. Stones are set in the ceilings after a regular but peculiar arrangement, and on them are carved semispheres in deep intaglio, with figures designed to represent various planets and stars. The middle chamber is destitute of any decoration, and is reached by walking on the terrace around the building, while entrance to the other apartments is gained by a grand staircase of ninety-six steps, very steep in construction, leading to the terrace. Another beautifully ornamented stairway led, at one time from a court yard adjoining the priest's palace to this sanctuary, while still another and smaller stairway still leads to the roof of the sanctuary and to its middle chamber also. In the centre of the court yard, which is surrounded by thick high walls, stood an altar carved with a symbol of phallic worship, introduced in the country at the beginning of the Christian era by Nahault. Above the door of the sanctuary there is a cornice running around the whole building, and on which is carved skeletons and cross-bones in profusion. Rings are also cut in the stone and from them were once hung curtains, which concealed from the temple worshipers some of the mystic rites of the priests. Stones carved with cabalistic symbols, and portions of the figures of strange giants, were also recovered in the palace court yard last August. The Deity is represented in all carvings by a mastodon's head, and carved with inscriptions in Egyptian characters, a form of symbol which is also found in the ancient monuments. In other parts of the building are found inscriptions containing letters of the Etruscan and Egyptian alphabets, the sentences being constructed in squares, after the fashion observed in ancient Chaldaic writings. The age of the sanctuary and dwarf's house is a matter of conjecture to the physician who examined it, and he serves it up now as a conundrum for American geologists and philologists to solve.

History of the Tomato.

A good many years ago a man who had recently arrived from the Bermuda Islands was sent to York county, Pa., for some offense committed against the laws of the commonwealth. He had with him a few seeds which he planted in the rich soil of the jail yard. Before the plants which sprung from the seed reached maturity, he was discharged, and no one knew the name or nature of them. They grew luxuriantly, bearing fruit of a large size and unusual appearance. As this strange fruit ripened, its color changed from a green to a brilliant red, and became an object of wonder and admiration to all the inmates of the jail. Mrs. Klinefelter, the lady keeper, cautioned all prisoners against eating any of the fruit, as she was sure it was poisonous, and besides planted the seeds, as she would endeavor to preserve specimens of it for him should he return in time.

Just when the fruit was fully matured the Bermuda prisoner revisited the jail and asked to see the plant. This request granted, he next called for pepper, salt and vinegar, and to the horror of the good lady commenced to eat of the supposed poisonous fruit with a relish that astonished the beholders. After enjoying the strange repast, he informed Mrs. K. that the fruit or vegetable was the tomato, or love apple, and it would be found wholesome and nutritious. The seeds of the remaining tomatoes were carefully preserved and distributed among the friends and neighbors of the lady, and this now popular esculent was introduced into the ancient and godly borough of York. For many years thereafter it was cultivated as an ornament rather than for table use, but by degrees its merits began to be more fully understood and appreciated, and there, as elsewhere, it grew into general public favor.

A Clever Escape.

One of the most daring, successful and well-planned escapes from jail on record was made at the Maiden Lane jail, Albany, Saturday afternoon, giving liberation to William Burke, alias "Billy the Kid," the famous bank and bond robber. The prisoner was recently arrested in Buffalo for being implicated in the robbery of $117,000 from a Cleveland bank. He was delivered to the officers and brought to Albany. Burke was confined with the other male prisoners in what is known as the rear portion of the jail. The entrance is from the hall between the sheriff's office and jailer's receiving room. The entrance is guarded by two doors, the outer one being of solid wood with a circular hole near the top, covered with wire netting, the inner door being of iron, the upper half composed of heavy bars. It has been customary to allow the friends of prisoners to stand on the outside of the outer door and talk to their friends through the netting over the circular hole. In the afternoon a stranger called and was granted permission to talk through the netting to Burke. The stranger gave the jailer a package of tobacco for a prisoner who was upstairs. While the jailer was delivering the package the man unlocked both doors with false keys, and the Kid with his friend ran from the building and have not since been seen. Telegraph messages have been sent in all directions, the entire force of the city are in search of the fugitive, and the sheriff has offered a reward of $1,000 for his arrest.

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, Jan. 20th, 1882.

Let it not be said that the Republican party is not for free trade. It is trading with John Kelly in New York, Mahone in Virginia, with Jones in Texas, and the greenbackers in a half dozen other southern states.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Jesse James, the train robber, is about as audacious a rogue as ever lived. He coolly offers that he and his band will agree to sign a bond for $150,000 to keep the peace, if the Governors of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee will grant them pardon.

The Baltimore Gazette has reached an unchangeable conclusion and says: "The Star route thieves will escape justice, and the Star route system will survive and fatten and contribute to the campaign expenses of the Stalwart candidate in 1884. Put that down and score it under."

Hon. S. P. Wolverton of Sunbury has been mentioned as a desirable candidate for Governor. We heartily endorse the suggestion and cannot think of a man in in the State who would more creditably fill the gubernaorial chair. He is a man of great ability, unimpeachable character, fine presence and agreeable manners and would reflect honor upon the party that elected him. In every respect he is a most desirable candidate.

The Pall Mall Gazette expresses surprise that the Post Office Department of the United States is not self-supporting. "With about the same income," it says, "the English Post Office Department gives a net profit to the nation of nearly £3,000,000 per annum." This comparison is stupid. The United States mail service covers an area of 2,790,000 square miles; that of Great Britain and Ireland, 121,230.

Judge Tourgee says that in his judicial district in North Carolina only five voters were white men, and yet it was frequently carried by a large Democratic majority. Does the Judge intend it to be understood that those five white men bulldozed the whole voting population of the district? The story is on a par with many published in the Republican organs about election time, and has not even the merit of originality.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican, on taking a survey of the political field, remarks: "We have a Stalwart President, a Stalwart Cabinet and a Stalwart Speaker—all done so quietly that scarcely a protest has been heard. When Guiteau called upon those men who have been advanced by his act to contribute to his defense, he swept over the political chess-board with a vengeance. That man Guiteau has made a deal of history, gentlemen."

If the President makes the fatal error of nominating Effigy Sargent for Secretary of the Interior, the Senate should not disgrace itself by confirming the nomination. If that body wishes to retain that respect of honest and reputable citizens which the President throws away, Aaron A. Sargent will be rejected without loss of time and by a decisive majority. A worse appointment the grave and reverend Senators will not be called upon to confirm during this administration. It almost makes one feel kindly toward Stanley Matthews.

To those gentlemen who are lamenting the squandering of hundreds of millions of the public money under the arrears of pensions act we wish to suggest this thought: No such act could have been passed if Samuel J. Tilden, the rightfully elected President, had been inaugurated in March, 1877. Had he been in the office to which he was chosen, instead of the white-livered Hayes, he would have vetoed the bill as it came from Congress and would have given reasons for his action so cogent as to make it respected. He would have been strong enough as President to organize the timid opposition to the measure.—Buffalo Courier (Dem.)

More than three hundred delegates were present at the meeting of the Independent Republican State Committee in Philadelphia, on Thursday of last week. Lively speeches were made by several speakers, among whom was Charles S. Wolfe, and the 24th of May was fixed as the date for holding a convention. This is after the day of the machine Republican Convention. Whether the Independents will endorse the nominations made at the Cameron Convention or name a ticket of their own, remains to be seen. There does not appear to be any great alarm in the Cameron camp.

The steamer Oxenholme from Liverpool, was considerably damaged by fire caused by the explosion of an infernal machine on the voyage to New Orleans. O'Donovan Rossa, the Irish agitator in New York, was asked whether he believed this machine had been put on board with intent to destroy the vessel. He replied,— "I do. There is no doubt of it. I have been urging them to do this thing in my paper. By striking the English flag whenever we can find it, we will teach the English Government to do justice to Ireland." This is simply monstrous and deserves the earnest condemnation of all decent men, whether Irishmen or not Such outrageous attempts to destroy the lives of innocent persons will not create sympathy for Ireland, but on the contrary will inspire horror and aversion.

THE ASSASSIN'S TRIAL.

The trial of Guiteau draws to a close and it is thought that the end will be reached in a very few days. Mr. Davidge made the opening argument to the jury on the part of the prosecution. He spoke for two days and made a masterly arraignment. The prisoner writhed under the scorching sentences and frequently interrupted the speaker. Mr. Reed spoke for the prisoner on Monday. On the following day, Mr. Scoville began the main argument for the defense. Guiteau read an ingenious appeal to the court for permission to address the jury. Opinion differs in Washington as to the result of the trial, but there are many who believe that the jury will not convict. Guiteau's manner is unchanged and he apparently is confident of acquittal.

Mr. Scoville's speech lasted through Wednesday and was not concluded. Guiteau again asked permission to address the jury at the conclusion of Mr. Scoville's address. Judge Cox said he would consider the matter. The prisoner made the usual number of interruptions but was not violent.

Col. Bliss stated that out of 14,101 bids in the Star Route cases, bonds were given for $8,000,000, and there was not value enough represented by the eight millions "to buy a spavined horse."

The struggle for the presidency of the Philadelphia and Reading R. R. company ended on Friday last, in a victory for F. B. Gowen. The vote was the largest ever polled and Mr. Gowen had a majority of more than 48,000. The large amount of stock held by W. H. Vanderbilt was cast for the successful candidate. The election of Mr. Gowen has been received with general satisfaction and there was an immediate rise in the price of stock. Mr. Gowen certainly deserves praise for the plucky fight he has made, and he owes his triumph to his own courage, tenacity and skillful management.

GUITEAU'S ADDRESS.

Judge Cox refused to permit Guiteau to address the jury, reasoning, very properly, that the assassin would not confine himself within the proper limits, but would make a wild and irrelevant harangue. Guiteau thereupon handed his remarks to the agent of the Associated Press for publication. The address proves the wisdom of Judge Cox's decision. It is not so incoherent as might have been expected, but contains nothing novel in the way of argument. Beyond all things it establishes the sanity of the murderer, and the jury would undoubtedly have taken this view had the speech been made in court. Guiteau claims to be a patriot and insists that his crime was not murder because he was inspired by the Deity at the time it was committed and powerless to resist. He quotes from letters of sympathy which he alleges have been sent to him. Through all the long address runs the amazing egotism that characterizes the man. His words are not worth reading and do not merit a place in print. Take Guiteau all in all, he is assuredly the most unblushing, irredeemable scoundrel the world has ever known. His vanity, self conceit and insolence are phenomenal and will make him a conspicuous figure in the ranks of the depraved.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate on the 12th inst. the bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri river near the city of St. Charles, was passed. The Sherman funding bill was debated. The House passed the caucus appropriation bill of $540,000. Both houses adjourned until Monday.

In the Senate on Monday Mr. Logan introduced a bill to pay Mrs. Abraham Lincoln arrears of pension for the five years intervening between the death of her husband and the passage of the act granting her a pension (the estimated total amount being $15,000), and asked an immediate consideration. It was refered to the pension committee. Mr. Voorhees made a speech in favor of retaining the arrears of pension act, and Mr. Beck spoke in opposition.

Mr. Cameron (Pa.) then delivered a speech in support of his pending resolution, declaring it as inexpedient to reduce the revenues by abolishing all existing revenue taxes except those upon high wines and distilled spirits. Nothing of importance was done in the House.

A number of bills were introduced in the Senate on Tuesday and Mr. Beck continued his remarks on the arrears of pension act. The time of the House was taken up by reports of committees.

The Senate, on Wednesday, after receiving petitions, reports of committees &c., discussed the currency question and the Sherman three per cent bill. The subject of enlarging the committees was the only topic in the House.

A TERRIBLE CALAMITY.

One of the most frightful railroad accidents ever chronicled, occurred on the Hudson River railroad, near Spuytenduyvil, last Friday night. The special express train from Albany after rounding a sharp curve was brought to a stop, as is alleged by some one pulling the check rope, and before it could get under way again the Tarrytown local train crashed into the rear cars completely demolishing them. The stoves were overturned and set the cars on fire. The locomotive of the Tarrytown train was so imbedded in the last car of the Albany train (the palace-car Idlewild) that when the engineer tried to back out she drew the car and the one in front (the Empire) with her. Every effort that was possible under the circumstances to save the passengers in the two burning cars was made, but the confusion and fright, combined with the lack of necessary appliances, rendered these efforts to a great extent unavailing. At the suggestion of the conductor of the Tarrytown train, whose coolness is greatly praised by the survivors, the passengers formed themselves into bands, some of whom rolled snow down the sidehill to the right of the track into balls. These were thrown into the burning cars and aided materially in reducing the flames. Others sought and found pails and buckets and used them effectually. Not a person in the last car escaped. The three drawing room cars were filled with Senators and Representatives on their way home from Albany. Eight bodies were recovered from the wreck, all of them horridly burned.

The following is a list of the dead:

Brown, Mrs. Mary L., 35 years old, of 455 West Fifty-third street, New York.

Keeley, Oliver B., 36 years old, of Spring City, Pa.

Marcehal, the Rev. Francis, 55 years old, of the Jesuit order.

Ransem, Darwin L. 30 years old, o the Hoffman house New York.

Valentine, Park, 21 years old, of Bennington, Vt.

Valentine, M. Louise, 19 years old, wife of Park Valentine.

Wagner, Senator Webster, 64 years old, of 14 East Forty-fourth street, New York.

An unidentified body of a man in Merrit's undertaking rooms, believed to be that of a Mr. Richards of Troy.

The only person who is seriously injured is Miss Mary Daniels of Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street. Her physician expresses fear that she may not recover.

Many others sustained injuries more or less severe. Senator Wagner was the owner of the drawing room and palace cars which run over the roads controlled by Vanderbilt. Mr. Valentine and his wife had been married only the day before the accident and were on their wedding journey. Both were caught by broken timbers of the car and burned to death, in spite of the most energetic efforts to release them. There seems to be little doubt that the horrible sacrifice of human life was due to the carelessness of a brakeman, George Melius, whose duty it was to run back and stop the approaching train. Instead of doing this, he remained only a short distance in the rear of the standing train, and used both red and white lanterns in signalling the Tarrytown train to stop. This man has been arrested and held in $5000 bonds to answer the charge of manslaughter. If the facts are as stated, he richly deserves the severest punishment.

The postmaster at Wilmington, Ohio, writes to the Post Office Department that a child died at that place a few days ago from what was supposed at the time to be chicken-pox. The funeral was largely attended, and as a consequence there are over fifty cases of virulent small-pox in the town.

The commemorative services in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the entrance into the ministry of Right Rev. Mark Antony De Wolfe Howe, bishop of the Central Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania, were held in Christ church, Reading, in Wednesday. A magnificent pastoral staff valued at $7000 was presented by the clergy of the diocese to the bishop, Rev Dr. Hopkins of Williamsport making the presentation speech.

A great crowd assembled at Cuantla, Mexico on Monday, to see the balloon ascension of Senorita Catalina Gorgoria, a beautiful girl only 17 years old. There was no car attached to the balloon, only the trapeze on which the girl performed. The balloon shot up amid the deafening cheers of the crowd. Catalina meanwhile was seen clinging to the trapeze and performing daring feats of agility. When the balloon was three-quarters of a mile high it suddenly burst and the girl fell to the ground, crushed and mangled to death.

Cuticura

THE CUTICURA TREATMENT, for the cure of Skin, Scalp and Blood Diseases, consists in the internal use of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, and the external use of CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the Great Skin Cures.

SALT RHEUM

Will McDonald, 2542 Dearborn Street, Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Salt Rheum on head, neck, face, arms and legs, for seventeen years; not able to walk except on hands and knees for one year; not able to help himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; doctors pronounced his case hopeless; permanently cured by Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cures) externally.

PSORIASIS.

H. E. Carpenter, Esq., Henderson, N. Y., cured of Psoriasis or Leprosy, of twenty years' standing, by the Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cures) externally. The most wonderful case on record. Cure certified to before a justice of the peace and prominent citizens. All afflicted with Itching and Scaly Diseases should send to us for this testimonial in full.

SKIN DISEAS.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used the Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally, Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cures) externally, and was cured, and has remained perfectly well to this day.

SKIN HUMORS.

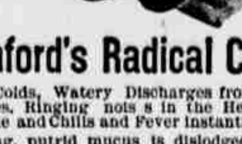

Mrs. S. E. Whipple, Decatur, Mich., writes that her face, head and some parts of her body were almost raw. Head covered with scabs and sores. Suffered fearfully and tried everything. Permanently cured by Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cures.)

CUTICURA,

Remedies are for sale by all druggists. Price of Cuticura a Medicinal Jelly, small boxes 50 cents; large boxes $1. Cuticura Resolvent, the new Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle. Cuticura Medicinal Toilet Soap, 25 cents. Cuticura Medicinal Shaving Soap, 15 cents, in bars for barbers and large consumers, 50 cents. Principal depot,

The pay car on the L. & B. R. R. passed down the road on Wednesday, and brought happiness to many employees.

Revs. Kinter and Cooper have been conducting revival meetings at the Christian church in Benton. Both are able preachers, and the meetings are largely attended.

The regular annual business meeting of the Pennsylvania Editorial Association will be held at the Lochiel Hotel, Harrisburg, Friday, January 27, 1882.

Did you ever notice how much colder it seems to be than you thought, after a glance at the thermometer shows the mercury in the neighborhood of zero?

James Long of Benton lost thirty new bags about two weeks ago, on the road from Hicks Kitchen's to Pealertown. The finder will be rewarded by returning them.

A very promising young mare owned by Mr. Lloyd Appleman of this town, died on Wednesday morning. It is supposed from lung fever complicated with other affections.

Robert Buckingham Esq., is engaged in auditing the accounts of the Prothonotary, Register and Recorder, and Sheriff, for the past year, for which he was appointed by the court.

In the Annual Statement of the Bloom Poor District the number of pounds of pork and lard raised on the farm, was given, last week, as 500. The amount should have been 3500.

The sale of land of Peter Appleman, deceased, which was advertised for December 31st at the Exchange Hotel in Benton, was adjourned until February 4th at the same place, as to one tract. The 15 acres were sold to Lloyd Appleman.

James N. Calely, Ex-National Councillor, and present secretary of the National Council Order United American Mechanics, accompanied by one of the members of the State Council of Pennsylvania, will pay an official visit to Bloomsburg Council next Tuesday evening.

The sixth annual ball of the Rescue Hose and Ladder Company, will take place on Tuesday evening, January 31st. It will be a masquerade affair, and those who expect to dance are requested to appear in costume. Persons not in fancy dress, can, however, have the privilege of dancing.

The sale of the real estate of Samuel Rhone deceased, in Benton township, was adjourned from the 13th to the 25th of this month, when it will be again offered for sale at the Exchange Hotel in Benton. It is a 22 acre tract with house and barn, and will make a very comfortable home for somebody.

Through the kindness of some of the ladies a supper will be served at Evans' Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings, the 27th and 28th insts., for the benefit of the Winona Fire Company. The proceeds will be devoted to the payment of the debt incurred by the purchase of uniforms. A liberal patronage should always be given the firemen, for their organizations are for the benefit of the community.

An erroneous impression is abroad that one vaccination is sufficient for a lifetime. The fact is that whenever the system of a person is in such a condition that vaccination will "take," that a person is susceptible to smallpox.—Wmsport. Sun & Banner.

The opinions of physicians differ as to that, some excellent authorities holding the opposite view. It is safer, however, to be re-vaccinated after the lapse of some years.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania has recently decided that "a promissory note which bears the genuine signature of the obligator, but which was, in fact, obtained from him by fraud and under the impression that he was signing an entirely different instrument, is a valid obligation against him, and in the hands of a bona fide purchaser or assignee for value, before maturity."

Mrs. Mary Magill, wife of Dr. Wm. H. Magill, died on Sunday morning, the 8th inst. aged 79 years. She was a woman of remarkable piety, faithfully attentive to her church duties, distinguished for her benevolence to the poor and her sympathy with the suffering. Her death was a fit termination of such a life. She gently, without a struggle, fell asleep in Jesus.—Montour American.

Last Tuesday evening a sleighing party of fourteen couples drove from Bloomsburg to Danville and had the jolliest kind of a time. They stopped at the Montour House where they danced to their heart's content. Supper was served at midnight and it was fully five o'clock in the morning before the merry makers reached home. There have been no sleighing parties this winter owing to the lack of the "beautiful," but it is safe to predict that however much snow falls there will not be a more delightful affair of the kind than Tuesday night's party.

The latest swindle, devised especially for the cheating of farmers, is as follows: A stranger offers a farmer the county right for a patent wagon tongue for $250. In a few days patent-right man No. 2 comes along. He has heard that the farmer has the right of the county for the patent wagon tongue, and he wants to buy the right of the county, and offers the farmer $400, and pays $10 to bind the bargain. The farmer writes to No. 1, and sends his note for $250. He never hears of either man again, but his note comes up for collection in a neighboring town. It is a pity that such rascals cannot in some way be lodged in jail.

A new building is to be erected in Catawissa for the use of the News Item, and ground has already been broken.

A shooting match between Harry Stride of Mahanoy City, and Samuel McLean of Coal Dale, for a purse of $100, is announced to take place at East Mahanoy Junction on the twenty-first of this month.

The steam heating apparatus is now in operation at this office. It was put in by Holmes & Schuyler, of this town, who have had large experience in the business. They are now engaged in putting steam heaters in the new school house at Catawissa.

A very large otter was shot a few days ago by Peter Crawford, at Hoffman's mill dam, above Light Street. The pelt was brought to town on Wednesday last and purchased by Mr. David Lowenberg. It is remarkable that so shy a creature should venture so near a town.

The Tunkhannock Democrat has abandoned its "patent outside" and the entire paper is now printed at the home office. We congratulate our cotemporary on the change, which is decidedly for the better. The outside looks well in its neat new dress.

The lecture delivered on Thursday night of last week, at the M. E. Church, by Bishop Wayman of the A. M. E. Church, gave perfect satisfaction to all who were present. The reverend gentleman preached in the A. M. E. Church, First street, on the following evening.

The editors of the Republican made an outrageous attack on the integrity and honesty of a number of the leading citizens of this town, over our shoulders, in last week's issue. We have but one word to say in reply, and that is that all their charges are as false as they are malicious.

At the session of the Convocation of Williamsport, held at Lock Haven last week, Rev. Louis Zahner, rector of St Paul's church, Bloomsburg, was appointed to preach the Wednesday morning sermon at the next session, to be held in Christ Church, Williamsport, on the 18th of April next.

On Wednesday evening a sleighing party of thirteen couples came from Berwick and registered at the Exchange Hotel. After supper, the dining room was turned into a ball room and dancing was enjoyed until an early hour in the morning. On the same evening, another party, from Danville, danced and made merry in Gilmore's saloon, on Main street.

Frosted windows are a great source of annoyance to our merchants. The following is a sure preventative: Apply to the glass evenly a slight film of pure glycerine, and you will not be troubled by the "sweating" complained of. Glycerine used in this way will also prevent the formation of frost on the glass in cold weather.

Some eight inches of snow fell last Friday morning and the prospect for sleighing grew more promising. The promise was not realized, however, as the snow melted rapidly and soon churned into mud. There was another fall of snow on Monday night and on Tuesday the sleighs were numerous on the streets. A few inches more of the white flakes and colder weather would bring delight to many lovers of sleighing.

We publish in this issue an important opinion of Judge Elwell filed on the 14th instant in the case of Howard vs. Jacoby. The construction given therein to the act of 1874 is of interest to the public and specially to candidates for nomination or election to office. We are informed that Mr. Jacoby denies the existence of the facts alleged by the plaintiff, but prefers to have the question disposed of by Certiorari, rather than incur the expense of a trial on appeal.

Small pox is spreading all over the country with alarming rapidity. Bloomsburg is and has been free from it for months, but it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that the dreaded disease may again make its appearance in our town. It is the part of wisdom to prepare to meet the unwelcome guest, and the only way this can be safely done is by vaccination. We advise our readers as a matter of precaution—though there seems to be no danger at present— to get vaccinated without delay.

The annual statement of the Columbia county Agricultural Society, published in the COLUMBIAN last week, shows the total receipts of last Fall's exhibition to have been $3,114.55. Although there was but one really clear day during the continuance of the fair, enough money was realized to enable the officers to pay $700 for the purchase of the grounds, handsome premiums and all necessary expenses, and leave a hundred dollars or more in the hands of the treasurer. This is doing well indeed.

The new rules of court fix Monday of the first week of the term as the time for hearing applications for license. All applicants for new houses must satisfy the court by evidence then produced that the house is necessary for the accommodation of the public. Any remonstrance against the granting of a license must be signed by some responsible person or persons, and filed with the clerk seven days before the first day of the term, setting out the objections to be urged against the granting of the license. The applicant and remonstrants each pay their own costs.

A LADY IN THE MATTER.

That "woman's wit is often superior to man's wisdom," was convincingly proved in a circumstance that occurred in this city recently. It appears that Mr. Ludwig Schwarzler, a widely known Grocer on Staton Road, suffered with a very painful rheumatic headache to such a degree, that he was obliged to seek the aid of a physician. All medicines he used were of no avail. This induced Mrs. Schwarzler to buy St. Jacobs Oil. She procured a bottle for her husband. With the second application he found relief. The pain left him, and he is as well as ever again. A remedy acting as promptly as this certainly deserves universal patronage.

How?—Mr. John Albeck, Yorks' Hill, owns a cow which, for weeks past has exhibited signs of sickness. A few days ago the owner noticed a swelling immediately behind the fore shoulder. He applied poultices to the spot for four or five days, and then had the swelling lanced. A sharp pointed article was discovered in the wound, which was drawn out by a pair of forceps, and proved to be the steel rib of an umbrella, eleven and one-half inches in length. The query now is, how came this steel rib in the body of the cow? Mr. Albeck thinks the animal fell on it and run in into her body; others think she swallowed it while feeding. Since the steel rib has been taken out, the cow has regained its health.—Danville Intelligencer.

On Thirty Days Trial.

HON. WILL CUMBACK.—This distinguished brother and Odd Fellow recently visited Princeton, on invitation of the Library Association, and delivered his famous lecture, entitled "Invisible Some People." It is a lecture that cannot fail to interest all that hear it. There are sublime passages in it that will stir to admiration the soul of any one who has a love for the beautiful. It abounds with it, and is full of home thrusts at the enemies of mankind.—Odd Fellows' Talisman, Princeton, Ind.

Personal.

Mr. E. R. Drinker has been out of town for several days in Scranton and New York.

The Hazleton Sentinel mentions that E. W. Low of Orangeville is visiting his uncle S. W. Hill in that town.

B. F. Fruit of Jerseytown registered at the Exchange Hotel on Tuesday.

Mr. J. W. Sankey, formerly of Lightstreet, this county, but now of Harrisburg, was in town on Wednesday. He is looking very well.

Miss Lue Wilson, of Berwick, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. B. S. Russell of Jamestown, Colorado, was the guest of Mr. J. A. Funston several days this week.

Rev. L. Zahner is absent from home this week in attendance at Reading upon the interesting ceremonies of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Bishop Howe to the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

C. W. McKelvy will remove his family from Catawissa to Bloomsburg in the Spring, and occupy the property of Mrs. Butler on Rock Street.

Miss Ida Cooper of Hazleton, who is visiting friends in Berwick, was one of the sleighing party at the Exchange Hotel on Wednesday evening.

Asbury Items.

S. J. Pealer and some of the Jonestown boys were up to the North Mountain on Saturday Dec. 31, and got two deer, a buck and doe. The professor had a wood hauling on Thursday of last week. He had a fine venison dinner for us. He came up from his school and partook with us after which he returned and sent up six of his students. The party consisted of Miss Eva D. Stiles, Minnie A. Robbins, Alice Smith, Lizzie E. Robbins, Ida D. Andrews and Clara A. Robbins. They had a jolly time, after which they returned to school, and desire to return their-heart felt thanks to their kind teacher for so nice a treat.

Asbury school is second to none in the township. Call and pay them a visit; you will be kindly entertained.

Doctor C. W. Amerman and family visited their many friends at Asbury last Sabbath. The Doctor feels very proud of the young son and daughter that came to his house on the evening of the 15th of November.

Buckhorn Notes.

Miss Hettie Pursel has returned from a visit to Canada; her many friends were glad to welcome her back.

Miss Anna Savidge is visiting friends in Jerseytown.

Mr. Harry Ohl of Hazleton spent a few days with Mr. John Betz.

Mr. C. L. Hartman and wife were stopping a few days with their old friend Jacob Harris.

While Rev. G. V. Savidge and family were returning from one of his appointments on Sunday, one runner of the sleigh gave way, throwing out himself, wife, and small children. Fortunately none were seriously injured.

We are sorry to chronicle that Dr. C. Lenker and family have moved to Schuylkill Haven. The Doctor has been practicing medicine in this community for about four years, and by his close attention to business, backed by ability, he had built up a large practice. He was not only an able physician, but a good citizen, and kind neighbor. The entire community express sorrow on account of his removal. He left a host of friends and no enemies. Miss Cal Hartman accompanied them. Our best wishes go with them.

From Centralia.

The Logan and Centralia collieries are running on three-quarter time.

Dr. Guinner has removed his office to Morrissey's building Locust avenue.

Mr. Wellington of St. Clair intends opening a drug store in the room now occupied by Chas. Johnson, the tailor, who will remove to Standenmeyer's building, a few doors below.

The Citizens' Band, under the leadership of Prof. Dusch of Ashland, made their first appearance on our streets Thursday evening, and notwithstanding the short time they have been practicing the boys do remarkably well.

Our police have been supplied with stars and black jacks. We suppose the stars were intended to distinguish them from other citizens, but the distinction was hardly necessary as they are a remarkable body of men, particularly for their absence in time of need.

Accidents at the mines here are of frequent occurrence. On Monday Stephen Thomas, an old miner, working at the Hazel Dale Colliery, was severely injured in the back by a fall of coal, and on the same day Jno. McHale, of the shanties was so badly hurt at Taylor's Colliery, Big Mine Run, that his recovery is not expected.

We would suggest that our educational dads have the fence around the Railroad St. school painted.

Dividing the Diocese.

The following open letter to Rt. Rev. Bishop Howe, bishop of the diocese of Central Pennsylvania, written by Rev. Dr. J. H. Hopkins rector of Christ Church, Williamsport, will be read with interest by all who are interested in church matters.

The Rt. Rev. The Bishop of Central Pennsylvania:

RT. REV. FATHER: After the adjournment of our last Diocesan Convention, at which, by a unanimous vote, a committee of sixteen was appointed to take into consideration the subject of the division of the diocese, you were kind enough to open a correspondence with me, in regard to the amount of endowment which you would require of us, before giving your consent to the erection of any new See within the bounds of the present Diocese of Central Pennsylvania. The sum fixed upon by you in that correspondence, is thirty thousand dollars.

It gives me great pleasure to inform you that including the $14,000 contributed from within the Convocation of Williamsport to the present Episcopal fund (nearly all of which was subscribed under the express condition that it should return to us in case of any future sub-division), the entire sum of thirty thousand dollars,—and a little something over and above,—is now subscribed and pledged for the new diocese to be erected out of the Convocation of Williamsport, in accordance with the MEMORIAL twice presented to the bishop and convention of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania.

Not a dollar of these subscriptions comes from outside the limits of this convocation, or can be used for a new diocese with any other boundaries than those mentioned in our MEMORIAL.

The subscription papers are in my hands, and I shall be happy to lay them before the committee on the division of the diocese, for their examination at their first meeting in Reading, on the day appointed for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of your ordination to the diaconate.

Your Obedient Servant and Son in the Church.

J. H. HOPKINS.

The druggist who hesitates now is lost for the winter. He should sling together some sweet oil and liquorice and bring out his cough cure at once. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup does not pay him enough profit.

Hyde & Beaman's "Muldoon Picnic" company will appear at the Opera House on the evening of February 3rd. Their entertainment is said to be the funniest thing of the season, and the press notices are more than usually favorable.

Two men with a large performing bear were on Main street on Wednesday afternoon. One of the men caused much amusement by wrestling with the shaggy brute. A large crowd assembled and watched the sport with keen interest. The bear was of a yellowish-white color and was of good size. His jaws were kept closed by a heavy leather strap.

C. C. Galligan heats his store room by an ingenious device of his own. A steam radiator is heated by means of a copper dome on top of a cylinder in the basement. Coils of iron pipe pass around the inside of the fire pot, with all the pipes necessary for circulation attached to the dome. By this means he heats two rooms with one stove and prevents the dirt that is made by double heaters.

Col. John Halfpenny, a well known citizen of Blair county died on Monday last. He was born in Washingtonville, at that time in Columbia county, on the 1st of April 1809. He subsequently moved to Muncy where he was interested in a woolen mill. He next settled in Centre county and went to Blair in 1853. He had just finished a term as County Commissioner.

In March 1880, Miss Emma Mitchner went to Liberia as a missionary under the direction of the M. E. church. On her way to join Rev. Mr. Day and at a point about half way between Bassa and Monrovia, Miss Mitchner was taken sick and died. She was known by many people in Bloomsburg, having visited friends here some years ago. For eight years she was a school teacher in Philadelphia, and was a woman of more than ordinary acquirements and force of character.

Next Monday evening the third lecture of the course under the management of the Bloomsburg Lecture Lyceum will be delivered at the Opera House, by ex-Governor Will Cumback. His lecture bears the attractive title of "The Invisible Some People," and it is said to be very interesting. Mr. Cumback has received the heartiest praises from both press and people. The Louisville Courier Journal says "He is acknowledged to be a speaker of great ability and eloquence, and possesses a ready wit and fine flow of genial and poetic fancy."

Birthday parties are becoming fashionable in Bloomsburg. Two of these pleasant social events occurred last week. On Thursday evening the seventieth birthday of Mrs. Aaron Hendershott was commemorated by her friends at her residence on Market Street. The following evening Mr. M. P. Lutz attained his forty first birthday and a number of his friends assembled at his home on Third street to congratulate him on the event and also upon the fourteenth anniversary of his marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Lutz received their guests with cordiality and served them with a delicious supper. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

Election Expenses.

WHAT CANDIDATES MAY AND MAY NOT DO.

The following opinion delivered by Judge Elwell will be found of general interest to all voters, and deserves a careful reading. Many of the points decided are frequently the subjects of discussion, but have never been definitely settled by judicial authority, so far as we have knowledge.

J. A. Howard, vs. W. H. Jacoby. } No. 10 Dec. T. 1881.

CERTIORARI.

Opinion of the Court, by Elwell, President Judge, filed January 14, 1882.

The justice gave judgment for the plaintiff for six dollars and fifty cents upon a claim of three dollars for services in procuring delegates from Pine township to a nominating convention favorable to the nomination of the defendant for the office of Register and Recorder, also, for six dollars and fifty "cents, money borrowed at the instance of "the defendant, and used for him in paying "travelling expenses to election, and for men "to leave their work and go to the primary "election for defendant, and for liquor bills "&c., and for two dollars paid for one gal- "lon of whiskey furnished by the plaintiff "at the instance of the defendant."

It does not appear whether there was a special contract to procure delegates to be elected from the township named, who would vote for the defendant, or whether, having rendered services by request, the plaintiff seeks to recover upon a quantum meruit. It was not material to spread the claim more fully upon the record. The right of the plaintiff to recover that item of his claim depends upon the character of the services performed. If they were not prohibited by law, nor contrary to public policy and good morals, the contract therefor was a valid contract.

A candidate for nomination or election, may freely and lawfully use all honest means to procure his success at the convention or at the polls. The act of 18th April 1874, Pamp. L. 64, expressly authorizes payments and contributions by candidates for printing, travelling expenses, dissemination of information to the public, political meetings, demonstrations and conventions but excepts out, every direct and indirect purchase of the vote or influence of an elector, and every act for any corrupt purpose whatever incident to an election. What is clearly embraced within the terms above mentioned and not excepted therefrom is lawful. Interest may be made for a candidate without taint of corruption. Electioneering, as it is called, without the use of corrupt means, is not condemned by the law. Even art may be used by a candidate in securing his election with pure motives and patriotic purpose. The statute forbids the perversion of art, not its use. Williams vs. Commonwealth 10 Norris 503. Per Trunkey, J.

The statute is not to be so construed as to prohibit a candidate from employing a friend to canvass an election district for him and by representations in regard to his qualifications, his claims for party support, or by any legitimate arguments operate upon the minds of the voters, and thus procure the return of delegates who will support him in the nominating convention. Such services are not illegal and are a sufficient consideration to support a promise to pay for them including necessary travelling expenses.

But the loan of money for the purpose set forth in the plaintiff's claim was illegal. Every contract made for or about any matter or thing which is prohibited and made unlawful by a statute, is void. Badgley vs Beale, 3 Watts 264. Money lent to be employed in an unlawful game or any other illegal purpose cannot be recovered back. Elerman vs Reitzel 1 W. & S. 181. 2 Smith's Leading Cases 346.

The act of 1874 in express terms declares that it shall not be so construed as to authorize the payment of money or other valuable thing for the vote or influence of any elector, either directly or indirectly, at primary, township, general or special elections, nominating conventions or for any corrupt purpose whatever, incident to an election.

Money paid or promised by a candidate to a voter for his day or travelling expenses in attending an election or a primary meeting and casting his vote for him, although such payment or promise is ostensibly made as a matter of friendship or charity, it is a violation of the Act of Assembly and of the provisions of article VII section 1, of the Constitution.

It is not necessary in order to bring a case within the prohibition of the statute that the candidate in terms agreed to pay a certain sum as a consideration for a vote. Ordinarily proof of corruption in such cases can only be established by the attending circumstances.

Where money is paid to a voter under the circumstances stated in this transcript, at least a prima facia case of illegality is established. If the purpose of this loan was not illegal a candidate may lawfully proclaim that every voter for him will be paid for his time and travel. It needs no argument to prove that such an offer, whether made to few or many, is nothing more nor less than a money bid for votes, nor that there are persons entitled to vote who would be influenced by the sum promised or paid to cast their votes for the generous donor. In a canvass thus conducted, a competitor who depends upon his merits, instead of money, stands but a poor chance for success. Especially would this be the case if it was understood (as it is in all such cases) that the liberality of the candidate who distributes the money was limited to those who would cast their votes for him.

The purpose for which the plaintiff borrowed and, as he alleges, expended the six dollars and a half demanded in this suit, was in part at least contrary to the statute, and in all respects contrary to the policy of the law. The plaintiff cannot state his case without exhibiting its illegality. No court will lend its aid to enforce a contract contrary to law or good morals, but will leave the parties where it found them. However it may be considered aside from the law, in law the condition of the defendant is the better.

The loan of the six dollars and fifty cents being one contract and for purposes contrary to law the judgment must be reversed.

Judgment reversed.

Pinkeye.

"Pinkeye" is not a scientific term applied by veterinary surgeons, as they recognize it as a severe form of typhoid influenza. The disease has received the popular name of "pinkeye" for the reason of the redness of the external coat of the eye, and lining of the eyelids. Its cause is unknown. The symptoms vary in different localities. Some animals, from constitutional weakness or peculiar condition of the system, are more susceptible to the disease than other animals in the same locations and surrounded by like influences. It is said not to be a new disease, as it was prevalent among horses in this country in 1854 and 1865. The symptoms of the disease are so variable, that there are a great variety of opinions among veterinary surgeons as to cause and treatment. The general symptoms are: "Slight watery or thin mucous discharges from the nostrils, eyes watery, with matter collecting in the inner corner; eye-lids swollen and puffy, the membrane on the inner side presenting yellowish red color; appetite in most cases lost or suspended; dull appearance of the countenance; in some cases mouth hot, with a corresponding increase of temperature of the skin; in most cases there is great prostration of strength, as shown in the staggering gait, with a quick, small and weak pulse; heart sometimes violently agitated, and respiration increased." Sometimes there is a cough, accompanied with a sore throat. Not all of the symptoms are prevalent in any one case. The disease has not been very fatal, except in cases of bad treatment, hard work and exposure to cold and storms. Ordinarily the disease yields to proper treatment and careful nursing. In fact, careful nursing is the most important agency in the recovery of man or animals. Not having much faith in our own skill nor in the hundreds of "hoss doctors" which can be found all over the country, who have no acquaintance with the nature of medicines, or the many diseases of the horse, we are reluctant to prescribe medicines, or recommend implicit confidence in others, unless they are accredited veterinary surgeons. But we annex the recommendations of Professor Robert Jennings, author of "The Horse and its Diseases," and several other standard veterinary works. He says: When the services of a veterinary surgeon can be had, it is safer to secure his services, as a mistake in the character of the disease may prove fatal to the animal and loss to the owner. It is difficult to lay down a course of medication in a disease presenting so many complications as this disease does at the present time. In ordinary cases tonics and stimulants are called for. In cases where the fever runs high, give the following: Tartrate of antimony and nitrate of potassa, of each, one drachm; mix both together, and give night and morning. When the fever is broken, tonics and stimulants are called for. The following may be used in ordinary cases with good effect: Gentian root, pulverized, and nitrate of potassa, each, one ounce; Jamaica ginger, pulverized, half an ounce; fenugreek or anise seed, pulverized, six drachms; mix and divide in four parts, give one night and morning. When there is dropsical swelling of the legs, half an ounce of sulphate of iron may be added to the above with good effect. If the lungs are involved give the following: Aconite root in tincture, with tincture of belladonna, one part each, water two parts; dose, one teaspoonful every three hours. If the liver is affected, which may be known by the yellow tinge of the mucuous membrane, dung small and hard, horse lying on his side, and occasionally looking at his side as if in pain, with occasional fits of uneasiness, give Barbadoes aloes, three drachms, calomel and pulverized digital is, of each half a drachm; make a ball with molasses. This must not be repeated. When there is soreness of the throat blisters should be applied; the fly blister, made thin with turpentine, answers a good purpose. The animal should be placed in a box stall, well littered with straw, and kept clean; as pure atmosphere as possible is necessary; the contaminated air of a badly ventilated stable retards or defeats restoration to health.

Trimming Trees.—There are frequently pleasant days in December, and sometimes in January, that the weather is not too cold for the fruit grower to work in his orchard comfortably. As this is usually a season of leisure, when such days come they should be improved by looking over the orchard. Limbs cut off at this season of the year, when the sap is comparatively at rest, leave a wound that can be more easily protected from the action of the weather, than if cut a few months hence, when the sap is in motion.

To trim a tree just right, requires good judgment, a good eye and some experience, as well as good tools. The saw should be not only sharp but perfectly straight, and set wide enough to run easy; the knife and the axe should also be sharp. To trim trees with poor tools is not only disagreeable work, but it is impossible to do the work well.

Some make a mistake in trimming trees, by trimming too much in the middle, cutting out not only large limbs but also all of the fruit-bearing spurs, leaving but a small amount of bearing wood at the end of each limb. While it is desirable to cut out all limbs that cross the other limbs and to keep the inside of the tree so that the fruit can be easily gathered, there is a point beyond which it is not judicious to go, as some of the best fruit frequently grows in the centre of the tree; this is especially true of some varieties of apples.

There are some pear trees that grow too high, and need to have their tops cut off to make them grow more stocky. The peach tree not only needs to be cut off at the top but to be headed in all sides.

In trimming small trees one thing should be never lost sight of; that is, that the trunks should never be exposed to the hot sun; if the top does not spread enough to shape it, a few inches of the lateral branches should be left to furnish leaves for shade. Where large limbs are cut off the wound should be covered with gum shellac dissolved in alcohol, or white lead mixed with a very little oil.—Mass. Ploughman.

Colts should be broken to harness at three years old, and used in light work for two years or more, when they will become matured and fit for full work. If they are used for hard service before their joints become settled or surrounded by a full grown texture of muscle and sinews to support them, they are liable to become strained, causing spavins or bone enlargements that will destroy their further value and usefulness. Any imbecile can break down the colt, but it requires good sense to bring it up after it has been broken down by ignorant taskmasters. It is not worth while to risk the experiment of converting sound colts into invalids when they will live longer and perform more service if suffered to ripen into the fully matured horse before being put to hard work.

The Goose Bone.

HOW IT FORECASTS THE WEATHER AND WHAT IT PROMISES.

The readings of the goose bone indicate a motley winter. There will be a good deal of snow and a few cold days, but no protracted cold weather.

This kind of weather will continue on through January, with a few cold days sandwiched between rain and snow. About the middle of January there will be a few clear, cold days, when the mercury will go down below zero. The latter part of the month will be wet and gloomy. There will be more genuine winter weather crowded into the little month of February than in December and January, but there will not be any intense cold. With the exception of the few days about the middle of January it is not likely that the mercury will go far below zero. The goose bone has long been an honored weather-prophet. In some of the back counties of Kentucky the farmers make all their arrangements in accordance with the predictions of the goose bone. In some localities the goose bone is laid aside, labeled with the year, and it is said that one old farmer in Breathitt county has the bones extending back for more than forty years, and in all that time it is asserted that the bone has never been mistaken in the weather.

To read correctly the winter of any year take the breast bone of a goose hatched during the preceding spring. The bone is translucent, and it will be found to be colored and spotted. The dark color and heavy spots indicate cold. If the spots are of a light shade and transparent, wet weather, rain or snow may be looked for. There are a good many people all over the country who pin their faith to the goose bone. Of all the weather prophets it is the most honored. The little groundhog disgraced himself long ago, and now very few people ever watch Candlemas day, and hogs' melts are no longer trusted in. A few years ago, when Tice and all human weather prophets predicted the most severe winter weather ever known, the goose bone told of a mild winter. The future unrolled just as the bone said it would, and poor old Tice had to change his predictions every day. The goose bone never changes and never fails.

The Post reporter has examined three bones, one from southeastern Kentucky, one from Laporte, Ind. They are identical to one another, and the reading here given will be found the same on the breast bone of any goose hatched last spring.—Louisville Post.

"Been to a fair."—A gentleman was going home at a late hour recently when he was suddenly confronted by a footpad, who, with a pistol pointed at his head, demanded his money. The gentleman assured the fellow that he had no money—that he had "been to a fair." Before he could say more the rascal dropped his pistol, put it in his pocket and presently took out his wallet, and crushing something into the citizen's hand, said, in grief broken accents, as he turned on his heel, "Been to a fair! Poor fellow! take that —I wish it was more." He was soon lost in the night. Upon approaching a street-lamp the gentleman found that the miscreant had given him a $10 bill. Verily, one touch of Nature makes the whole world kin.

It is a waste of money to invest in improved stock unless you are willing to give it some care and attention. Don't buy something good and then starve it, or freeze it, or give it foul water to drink, or filthy quarters in which to rest. Give it a fair protection from the weather, keep it in a clean condition, give it sound, wholesome food and water—and it will thrive and prove a profitable investment. Neglect and ill-treatment will in a few generations make scrubs out of the finest blooded stock, and the difference between thorough-bred scrubs and native scrubs is too little to be of consequence.—Stockman.

Something of a change: When an Austin schoolmaster entered his temple of learning a few mornings ago, he read on the black-board the touching legend: "Our teacher is a donkey." The pupils expected there would be a combined cyclone and earthquake, but the philosophic pedagogue contented himself with adding the word "driver" to the legend and opened the school with prayer, as usual.—Texas Siftings.

It would be a mighty mean man who would refuse to give a new note to borrow sufficient money to take up his outstanding paper at fifty cents on the dollar.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1882.

The Sun for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The Sun's light is for mankind and womankind of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

The Sun of 1868 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of The Sun. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modelled after The Sun. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of The Sun's example.

The Sun of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with The Sun. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of The Sun's political course.

The Weekly Sun gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An agricultural department of unequaled merit, full of market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific, and domestic intelligence complete The Weekly Sun, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not know and read and like The Sunday Sun, each number of which is a Golconda of interesting literature, with the best poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good-sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little?

If our idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for The Sun.

Our terms are as follows:

For the daily Sun, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post paid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents per month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of The Sun is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year postage paid.

The price of the Weekly Sun, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free.

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognized by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.
